

Pen Portrait - James Bailey

I studied Computer Science at Anglia Polytechnic University (as it was known back then). Since graduating I have had various IT roles in areas including systems administration, management and also coding. My jobs have taken me around the world, including living in Amsterdam for a time. We moved back to the UK when we wanted to start a family, settling here in Beck Row. As I was keen to get involved with the Academy, I applied for a Parent Governor position when it became vacant. Since then I have moved on to become a community governor.
