

Pen Portrait – Lloyd Hughes

After graduating from Southampton University and gaining an Advanced Diploma in Education from Cambridge University I spent forty years teaching Middle School pupils in Suffolk. I had been a teacher governor during this period and after retiring I was invited by SCC to become a governor at Great Heath School. When the post of Chairman became vacant I was asked to stand and subsequently have held the post for six years including the transition period from County Primary to Academy status. I completed the qualification of Leadership for Chairs of Governors run by the National College to help enable me to become effective in this role.
